

The Faculty of Management, Economics and Sciences (FGES) of Lille Catholic University is hiring an adjunct professor to deliver a course on project management in the Master program “Digital Commerce”.

The FGES offers 7 Bachelor degree programs, 8 Master degree programmes as well as professional bachelor’s degrees in sciences, management, accounting and economics, and preparatory modules for admission into business schools. FGES welcomes 2,000 students each year. Student’s advice and support (e.g. through active teaching, student life, personal development and professionalization) and internationalization are a relevant part of University’s mission, which aims to educate professionals able to adapt, to innovate, to become active citizens and to be responsible for their actions.

The Catholic University of Lille, with its 32,000 students, is a multidisciplinary university with five Faculties (Law, Humanities, Medicine, Management, Economics & Sciences, Theology), 20 Schools and Institutes, including medical and paramedical schools, social work, a Hospital Group, and overall around 50 research teams bringing together 650 researchers.

The project management course is made of 16H00 teaching hours and will take place between end of september 2021 and end of January 2022.

The aim of this course is to enable students understanding strategic challenges associated with project management as well as main project management methods (oriented toward Agile and SCRUM)

Students will get accustomed to the identification, formalization and hierarchization of needs, to the different stages of a project as well as to the different steps of the guidance associated, to Agile practices and to the differences between traditional and Agile methods, to project management as well as to the challenges associated with managing change. The course will mix case studies, exercices and theoretical content.

The following skills and competences are required :

- A Master degree (or a significant professional experience)
- A real expertise in project management
- Good communication and interpersonal skills
- Rigor, commitment and responsibility

To apply please send your CV to Marion Lauwers (marion.lauwers@univ-catholille.fr). Salary will be in line with the University rate card, depending on professional experience and level of education.